1. Claims 7-11, 16 and 19 stand withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on September 18, 2006.

2. The indicated allowability of claim 5 and 12 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Japan '469. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 12, 17, , 20 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japan '469 (Japan 5-221469) in view of either Bellati et al. (U. S. Pat. No. 5,058,946) or Japan '654 (Japan '140654).

Re claims 1 and 17, Japan '469 is cited disclosing a dispenser assembly for dispensing additive material, said dispensing assembly comprising:

a reservoir (4) for holding the additive;

a dispenser actuator configured to selectively open an outlet (5) of said reservoir upon movement of said actuator; and a shape memory wire (1) adapted contract in length upon application of an electric current (as at 2) and to elongate upon interruption of current thereto, said shape memory wire being connected to said actuator for causing movement of said actuator by contraction of said wire that differs from the claims only in the recitation of the dispenser dispensing an additive during a wash cycle. Bellati and Japan'654 are each cited disclosing the arrangement of employing a memory shape actuator for dispensing an additive during a wash cycle. It therefore would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify the arrangement of Japan'469, to have the same employed in a dishwasher as taught by either Bellati or Japan'654, since Bellati and Japan'654 clearly discloses that it is old and well known to employ such in a dishwasher and the same is considered to a substitution of equivalents. Re claims 2, 4 and 21, Japan'654 discloses the shape memory wire and with the reservoir acting as a plunger. Re claims 5 and 12, to provide a second actuator and reservoir, is deemed to an obvious duplication of parts (MPEP 2144.04 REVERSAL, DUPLICATION OR RE-ARRANGEMENT OF PARTS). As claimed, there is no structural nor functional difference of the second actuator and reservoir. It is suggested to specifically claimed both the detergent additive and the rinse additive reservoirs. Re claim 18, Japoan'469 discloses the pulling.

5. Claims 3 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the applied prior art as applied to claims 1 and 17 above above, and further in view of Japan'217 (Japan 10-55217).

Claims 3 and 20 define over the applied prior art only in the recitation of the lever, Japan'217 is cited disclosing the arrangement of employing a lever in a shape memory alloy actuator employing a lever. It therefore would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify the arrangement of Japan'469, to include a lever as taught by Japan'217, since the it is old and well know to employ levers, cranks or rods in various actuators depending upon the environment and of space requirements.

6. Claims 6 and 13 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. Claims 14-16 stand allowed.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. In Japan'468, Japan'582, Mernroe, Germany'579, Japn'498, Japan'435, note the actuator..
